BIG BOMBERS HIT HEAVIEST INVASION BLOW

More Than 7,000 Sorties Flown by Noon Today in Support of Allied Troops.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 12—American heavy bombers and streams of lighter craft pumped a steady hail of bombs and lead into German defenses today in the greatest aerial blows to date supporting the French invasion.

Flying in fine weather, the allied air forces by noon had run up more sorties than all day yesterday—when 7,000 planes slammed the Germans. From dawn on—after a night in which RAF bombers pounded four key rail centers in France and went to Berlin—heavies, mediums, lights, fighter-bombers and fighters raced over the battlelines and far into France, bombing and strafing.

A significant new point in the support campaign became apparent. Squadrons of RAF fighters were attacking specific targets in rapid-fire order on calls from ground units—which meant new-established air bases on French soil were clicking.

Besides the speedy knockout of particular objectives immediately in front of the troops, the campaign was proceeding along two main lines—disruption of transport lines within 100 miles of the battleline over which Marshal Erwin Rommel is trying to build up his tactical reserves and the bombardment of rail centers beyond the 100-mile radius through which the Germans might draw on strategic reserves in southern France.

The German air force was responding with heightening strength. About 100 enemy planes were over the battle area last night and American Thunderbolt fighter-bomber pilots returning from an early morning foray reported opposition "the roughest yet."

Claim Transport Sunk

The Germans claimed to have sunk one small troops transport in the Seine bay last night.

American Marauders and Havocs bombed railroads and highway bridge targets without loss, and panicked concentration of troops at Failaise, southeast of Caen, flying so low a sergeant gunner reported, "you could pick out German lieutenants from sergeants and shoot the lieutenants."

Before breakfast time railroad yards, German road convoys and a seaplane base near Caudebec had been attacked by RAF mediums.

Then a force of around 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators with swarming hundreds of escorting fighters swept in upon some of the airbases into which the Germans belatedly were shuttling part of their lean air force.

For some hours after dawn, the noise of aircraft was heard over the English south coast as planes headed out to give direct support to allied troops on the Normandy battlefront.

NAZI AUTHORITY IN FRANCE DIMINISHING

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 12—Advices from Spain today said Vichy authority in southern France is disintegrating, except where it is close to German protection, and that French underground forces are cutting communications between enemy garrisons.

Meanwhile, in the harshest of a series of German steps aimed at subduing the increasing resistance behind Nazi lines, Field Marshal Gen. Karl Gerd Von Rundstedt proclaimed last night that Frenchmen resisting the Germans would be executed when captured.

French resistance leaders, in a broadcast last night from the United Nations radio at Algiers, urged all Frenchmen and women to consider themselves mobilized to hamper the Germans by every means possible and to give all possible aid to the Allies.

It was disclosed that Gen. Charles De Gaulle's official radio spokesman in London has visited the liberated town of Bayeux in Normandy and addressed several thousand Frenchmen in the market square.

Earlier reports from Spain said French resistance groups had occupied strategic centers Toulouse, Nimes and Tarbes in southern France but these were questioned by Frenchmen at the Spanish border.

ENTIRE FRONT GAINS IN ITALY

Fifth Army Near Important Road Junction 71 Miles North of Rome.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 12—Fifth army troops have occupied Monte Fiascone, an important road junction near the shores of Lake Bolsena, and other columns pushing along the Italian west coast are approaching Orbetello, 71 miles northwest of Rome, allied headquarters announced today.

Eighth army columns advancing up both sides of the Tiber neared Bagno Reggio west of the river and Rieti east of it.

In the mountainous central sector, Avezzano and its neighboring villages have been occupied while in the Adriatic sector all Germans have been cleared from the area south of the Pescara river and allied troops have pushed ahead to main contact with the withdrawing Germans.

A gain of 15 miles was announced for Fifth army units along the west coast. Near Nunziatello the Germans counter-attacked with two companies, but the Americans beat them back and continued the drive.

Among the areas to fall into allied hands was Lake Fucino near Avezzano, which some years ago was drained and now is a 45,000-acre tract of rich farmland.

Headquarters disclosed the sixth South African armored division was among the eighth army units which advanced through the Liri and Sacco valleys.

After distinguishing itself in engagements there, this division made a "ghost move" by entering the Fifth army territory, swiftly through Rome despite the congestion of the city and then shooting northward more than 50 miles up of the west bank of the Tiber.

"It is now quite clear," a headquarters announcement said, "that the original 14th army of (Col. Gen. Everhard) Von Mackensen has been dispersed to the four winds.

1,000 Workers Called To Meet for Kick-Off Session Tonight.

This is the kick-off day for Marion county's part in the Fifth War Loan.

A thousand workers are to meet tonight in The Star auditorium for a kick-off rally at 8:15, the signal for the start of an intensive 26-day campaign.

Marion county's goal is $3,365,000 in Fifth War Loan bonds by July 8. This total, 18.6 per cent higher than the Fourth War Loan quota, includes $1,534,000 to be sold to individuals.

The E bond quota a part of the $1,534,000 goal for individual buyers is $819,000.

Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the Marion County War Finance committee, looked over the campaign organization today and voiced his pleasure over the intensive work that has been done to make certain that every Marion county resident will be asked to buy extra bonds during the drive.

Organization Enlarged

The workers' organization, he said, is larger than ever before, and more preliminary work has been done to get committees organized and instructed in advance of the campaign than in any previous drive.

The air raid wardens and other civilian defense units will handle the residential canvass in the city, starting Tuesday night when the air raid sirens are sounded at 7 o'clock. Marion residents will hear the sirens nightly, except Sunday, for one solid week as a signal for solicitors to start making their evening calls and for Marion residents to get ready to receive them. This phase of the campaign organization is headed by W. E. Orcutt.

Factory Forces Ready

Today found Fifth War Loan committees in all large factories organized and ready for intensive drives among their fellow workers. In these plants, the goal is to get an average of $100 invested in war bonds during the Fifth War Loan. Harold J. Grigsby is chairman of the payroll savings committee heading this phase of the drive.

The downtown business places will be canvassed by the block leaders, an organization headed by R. C. Snare. They will contact the heads of business concerns and professional men.

The rural organization, reaching into every township, is headed by A. J. Loudenslager, and the preliminary work of organizing this group was completed last week.

Another group of war bond officials will handle the job of contacting the large industries for their corporate purchases.

Tonight's Program

Tonight's program will be comparatively brief, because all workers have previously received their supplies and instructions. The principal speaker will be Sam Vining, a Mansfield speaker whose talks on salesmanship have stressed enthusiasm on the part of the seller. There will be music tonight by the Harding High school band and a cappella choir, and war movies. Henry Krigbaum will preside. William Doody of Cleveland, representing the area War Finance committee, will speak briefly and singing will be led by L. G. Jones.

Progress of the campaign will be reported daily through the War Finance committee headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce offices. Only actual bond sales will be counted in the reports.

The first of a series of six articles by Associated Press war correspondents on what war bonds mean to men at the fighting fronts appears on today's editorial page.

Paper Drive To Open Tuesday

Final arrangements are being made for the waste paper salvage drive to be staged Tuesday through Friday by the Marion County Salvage committee and the Boy Scouts of the city.

Residents of the southwest section of the city are asked to have their contributions in readiness by 8:30 a. m. Tuesday. This is a change from the original schedule which called for starting the drive in the northwest part of the city. The change is necessitated by a change of schedule for the trucks and workers.

Wednesday the trucks will be in the southeast section, Thursday the northeast section and Friday the northwest. The city has been divided into four sections with Center and Main streets as the dividing lines.

Trucks are being contributed by firms and business places. Where there are no papers on the porch a Boy Scout accompanying the truck will ring the doorbell to see if there are any contributions.

A goal of 60 tons has been set, the proceeds to be used by the Boy Scouts to help finance the improvement of Camp Owens.

POST-WAR ERA PLANS LAID BY SENATE GROUP

Committee Says U. S. Must Employ 8 to 10 Million More Than Previous Total.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 12 — After victory, says the senate's special post-war planning committee, business and industry in the United States must employ 8 to 10 million more people than have ever been employed before in peacetime.

A report presented today by Chairman George (D-Ga) estimated that even if 2 or 3 million men are retained in the armed forces, full employment must be available for between 54 and 56 million people. This compares with the pre-war peak of approximately 46 million employed, reached in 1929, 1937 and again in 1940.

"This country never has had and never will have real prosperity without full employment," the report declared, adding that the huge number of jobs that must be provided "presents a challenge almost as grave as the challenge of war."

Present employment in the country was estimated at about 50,000,000 persons, exclusive of those in the armed forces. The overtime work they're putting in was reckoned the equivalent of an additional 5,000,000 persons.

Higher Production Needed

The committee declared the only answer to the full employment problem is "a much greater gross national production than this country has ever produced in peacetime."

The report listed 16 ways in which it said congress could help businessmen work out the best solution to the problem, and it urged that no extended congressional recess be considered until they are disposed of.

It recommended that congress:

1. Set up an office of demobilization to coordinate the activities of all government agencies dealing with demobilization.

2. Enact legislation to assure speedy, fair termination of war contracts and clearing of war plants.

3. Provide proper regulations for marketing surplus war property.

4. Make necessary revisions in unemployment compensation laws.

5. Make certain that materials needed for construction of roads and public works, as well as private projects, are available immediately after hostilities end.

6. Frame legislation designed to stimulate housing construction.

7. Consider assistance for war workers who need retraining.

8. Study how long price controls and rationing should be retained.

9. Consider the probable post-war budget, cutting out unnecessary expenditures.

10. Study the problem of refinancing treasury obligations when war bonds are cashed in.

11. Study the problems of post-war taxation, pointing for rates that will stimulate investment and purchasing power—rates perhaps "drastically lower than today's levels."

12. Examine the securities and exchange act to eliminate conditions the committee said make flotation of new and small security issues troublesome and expensive.

13. Explore the future of foreign trade.

14. Take steps to prevent monopolies and trade barriers.

15. Prevent excessive delegation of congressional powers.

16. Eliminate overlapping functions of government.

"If the congress discharges its obligations in the fields set out above," the report said, "we can well have what Mr. (Bernard) Baruch called an adventure in prosperity. If it does not survey these fields and reach wise decisions in them, we can well have economic chaos."

Russia Opens Drive To Knock Out Finn Army

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 12—Launching a major offensive designed to knock Finland out of the war and isolate 100,000 Nazi troops in the northern part of that country, the Red army rolled forward along the Karelian Isthmus above Leningrad today after cracking Finnish defenses on a 23-mile front.

A communique last night announcing the new drive said Soviet troops already had advanced 12 to 25 miles, and indicated they were moving forward everywhere in high gear.

Troops under Col. Gen. Leonid Govorov, who lifted the siege of Leningrad, launched the push Friday, just one month after the fall of Sevastopol.

The Soviet communique declared Russian forces had captured 82 towns and villages, including the rail junction of Terijoki, 27 miles airline northwest of Leningrad and 160 miles east of the Finnish capital of Helsinki.

Also captured, the bulletin said, was Yappilya, described as "an important strongpoint" seven miles northeast of Terijoki situated on the Leningrad-Helsinki railway about six miles west of the 1938 Russian-Finnish border, and 70 miles east of the frontier established by the peace treaty which ended the war between the two countries in the winter of 1939-40.

The Soviets said the offensive was being supported not only by masses of planes, but also by guns of the Russian Baltic fleet, and that heavy losses in men and material were being inflicted on the Finns.

JAPS BATTLE FOR CHANGSHA

By The Associated Press

Japan's determined campaign to seal off eastern China against future Allied use mounted toward a climax today in the furious battle for Changsha.

Chinese troops ordered to fight to the last man were backed up against the outer defenses of this key link in the Hankow-Canton railway. They were resisting formidable forces which have pushed 20 miles southward from the Hankow area.

Another Japanese force, Chungking reported, was driving northward out of Canton along the railroad, aiming at closing a vise on the oft-embattled city.

Chennault Cites Danger

Gravity of the battle prompted Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault to declare the Pacific war could be prolonged for years if Japan were allowed to build a defensive wall along the railroad. The two-

ALLIES PUT MORE MEN ASHORE EAST OF BIG PORT CITY

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, JUNE 12—American troops have captured Carentan, main stronghold guarding the narrowest neck of Cherbourg peninsula, the German high command conceded today, and British forces have battered nine miles east of Caen, threatening encirclement of that eastern hinge of the Normandy battlefront.

Doughboy troops not only were cracking the Cherbourg peninsula line at the center, pounding halfway across the cape, but one spearhead had hammered within 14 miles southeast of the great funnel port itself. And Berlin said seaborne forces had poured ashore at St. Vaast La Hougue, 15 miles east of Cherbourg.

The Germans said Carentan, whose floodgates control the main peninsular water defense system, was evacuated in order to continue a stand on ground less exposed to allied naval guns.

As for Caen, German broadcasts said a British drive had reached nearly to Troarn, nine miles due east of that bastion, and that allied parachutists had landed south of Caen. British troops were driving down west of Caen threatening the other flank. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has mounted his fiercest armored counter-attacks in this Caen sector, and Berlin said major British forces were concentrating for a full-fledged assault on the town.

In the center of the 50-mile-long front, American troops were advancing toward St. Lo, a prize communications hub 20 miles inland.

As the American frontal attack across the Merderet river on Cherbourg peninsula reached within 12 miles of the west coast roads—whose capture would seal off Cherbourg—Vichy radio said doughboys had pushed into Quineville on the east coast.

This would put Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's flank within 14 miles of Cherbourg on a four-mile front between Quineville and Monteburg, where street fighting was reported.

American troops have captured the whole forest of Cerisy.

The smashing advance through the Cerisy forest punched the deepest dent yet in the Nazi line.

Doughboys were converging on St. Lo, communications hub in the center of Normandy, less than nine miles away, from the north and east.

Headquarters did not confirm the fall of Carentan, guarding the narrowest neck of Cherbourg peninsula, but said Americans were within 14 miles of Cherbourg itself from the southeast, and had punched halfway across the cape, threatening to seal off the tip.

The Germans, apparently reeling under the force of the first invasion week, said 300,000 to 400,000 allied troops already had been poured into a mighty bridgehead flood and that these represented only a third of the amphibious assault forces poised in Britain.

"The bulk of the huge forces of the 21st amphibious army group is still standing by to pounce on some important harbor," the German radio declared.

Continuing a stream of reports of new allied landings, Berlin's Transocean news agency said seaborne forces had been put ashore at St. Vaast La Hougue near the top of the peninsula and due east of Cherbourg yesterday.

The Germans said the allies had crossed the Orne estuary, ferrying over tanks and threatening Caen, which Marshal Erwin Rommel by his counterattacks had made a testing point.

Crossing of the estuary forced the Germans to evacuate two towns before the allied onslaught was checked near Troarn, nine miles east of Caen, by German account. A breakthrough here would link up infantry with parachute troops which the Nazis said had landed in the Troarn area earlier.

Heightening the prospect of encirclement of Caen was the German report of other parachute troop landings south of the town.

To the west British troops also were flanking the town by a thrust through Tilly-Sur-Seulles where armored columns were engaged in fierce combat.

Still farther west, American forces were said by allied headquarters to have smashed with gathering force beyond the flooded Merderet river at several points and into the Forest De Cerisy, a defense point for the communications hub of St. Lo.

The German account said Carentan was given up to take German forces out of range of punishing allied naval gunfire.

Earlier allied accounts said the fighting swayed close to the flood-guarded town and the Germans had told of heavy tank attacks and night penetrations of the place.

Official reports said only that British and Canadians were holding their own satisfactorily along the explosive Caen line, but field dispatches declared Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had mounted a powerful encircling sweep, with the Allies driving ahead on both flanks around the town.

Headquarters communique No. 13, issued at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. Eastern war time), reported intense fighting against German armored columns raged without respite in the Tilly-Sur-Seulles area on the British sector of the front.

Field Marshal Karl Gerd Von Runstedt was rushing reserves up from as far back as Paris to meet this mounting menace, but his new men and guns, and the roads over which they moved, were under bomb, cannon, rocket and ma-

GRAIN PRICES EASY AS INVASION COMES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 12—Indecision was the grain market's immediate reaction to news of Allied landings on the European continent but generally prices throughout the past week were easy, affected by the impending harvest of a bumper crop of winter wheat and by forecasts of large yields of all small grains.

Uncertainty of the after effects of the European war immediately became apparent in the market but traders expected the Allies to create a tremendous demand for grain by shipping large supplies for the relief of liberated countries.

The trade is impressed with the large crop of winter wheat, some of which already has been harvested. The first effect of movement of the new wheat was to create an easier undertone in the old crop. Some offerings of old wheat at Kansas City sold below ceiling. At Fort Worth, Texas, 60 cars of this season's crop were sold at seven cents under the ceiling for No. 1 hard winter wheat.

The winter wheat crop this season, some forecasts said, may be the third largest on record unless there is a period of hot winds or a wet harvest. The latter normally causes damage to quality rather than size of the yield.

General rains have improved pastures, easing the tight situation in feed grains. Meantime, the demand for dried grains for alcohol production was strong and stocks were being used as rapidly as they were made available. Supplies for brewers were inadequate.

Dewey Polls Gain with Unions But Roosevelt Leads

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12—If Thomas E. Dewey is nominated to run for President, he stands to win a higher proportion of the labor union vote than any Republican candidate since 1932.

A defection from Roosevelt has taken place during recent years among the ranks of both CIO and AFL members. However, the President will, if he runs again, still hold a 2-to-1 advantage with organized labor in spite of the defection.

The political preferences of union members are revealed in a national survey by the Institute in which a cross-section of organized labor was interviewed from coast to coast to determine their preferences if Roosevelt and Dewey are the opposing candidates.

The vote of all union members follows, together with their vote in the 1936 and 1940 elections.

UNION MEMBERS

	P.C. for Roosevelt	P.C. for Repub.
1936 Election	80%	20%
1940 Election	72	28
Today (vs. Dewey)	66	34

The President has always been more popular with CIO members than with AFL members, and the same holds true today. However, it is interesting to note that while his percentage support is higher in the CIO than in the AFL the degree of defection since 1940 has been greater in the CIO.

BUCYRUS, June 12—Mrs. Ervin J. Pfahler of New Washington is awaiting further details concerning the crew of an army bomber shot down in the European theater May 28, on which her husband, Lt. Pfahler was serving as pilot.

Mrs. Pfahler, the former Mary Powell of New Washington, received a telegram from the war department Saturday advising that her husband was listed as missing. A picture of the bomber crew was enclosed in a letter received by Mrs. Pfahler from her husband last week in which he told her that the crew had just completed its seventh mission.

Lt. Pfahler who received his commission in Texas last November went over seas in April. He is the father of a 17 months old daughter. His mother, Mrs. Emma Pfahler, lives near New Washington. Before entering military service Lt. Pfahler was employed at the Shelby Tube Works. He is a graduate of New Washington High school.

Invasion Weapons

The Bazooka

Associated Press Features

By The Associated Press

Possibly so-named because it looks like Bob Burns' stovepipe horn, one of the deadliest weapons developed for this war is the Bazooka, a rocket launcher used to blast tanks, armor and fixed enemy positions, such as pillboxes. Normally two-man operated, it can be fired successfully by a lone infantryman, and hurls a one to two-foot explosive projectile for a considerable distance.

The Bazooka appears to be nothing more than a piece of pipe, about five feet long, open at both ends and fitted with a rifle stock and two tommy-gun grips. The trigger's electrical contact sends the rocket projectile off with a burst of flame. One soldier aims the weapon from his shoulder and his companion inserts the rocket.

Three Hundred Thousand Strong

IT'S HARD to get three hundred thousand Army trucks into any kind of picture. They take up as much room as several million soldiers . . . Of course they are now scattered all over the world behind the battle lines and on the fighting fronts. They range from the husky six-wheeled BIG SHOT down to the smaller weapons carriers and command reconnaissance cars. They include thirty thousand ambulances — official Army vehicles of medical rescue on practically every front . . . We have tried to build these Army trucks to give the officers and men who are doing the real fighting the dependable support they deserve. All of these Army trucks are direct descendants of the famous Dodge Job-Rated Trucks you see today faithfully hauling milk, foodstuffs, fuel, production materials and other wartime essentials

We have been authorized to produce 1¼ and 2-ton DODGE Job-Rated TRUCKS for rationing to purchasers for essential wartime civilian use. See your Dodge dealer.

MISS MARJORY SEIGFRIED, daughter of Mrs. Clara Seigfried of 588 Davids streets became the bride of Cpl. Clinton O. Edelblute, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edelblute of Marysville, Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in the Fite Memorial Baptist church. Rev. Dana M. Allen of Chicago performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with palms, baskets of garden flowers and two seven-branch candelabra.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a gown of white tuck-basque marquisette over taffeta. It was made with a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. She wore a small hat of starched lace to which a fingertip veil was attached. Her only jewelry was a gold heart shaped locket, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible, showered with pink and blue satin ribbons and tiny pink carnations and blue delphinium.

Miss Martha Lee was the maid of honor and wore pink taffeta and marquisette. The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Green, wore blue embroidered marquisette. Both wore small white hats with matching shoulder length veils and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations, blue delphinium and baby breath. The bride's mother wore a purple sheer print with black accessories and a gardenia corsage. Mrs. Edelblute chose a two-piece green print, white accessories and gardenias.

Preceding the ceremony, a half hour of piano music was played by Mrs. Cecil Davis. She played "Serenade", "Sweetheart", "Somewhere a Voice is Calling", "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses", "At Dawning" and the traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony she played "La Estrellita." Mrs. J. Eugene Auld of Mt. Gilead sang "I Love You Truly", "Because" and "Thine Alone". A reception for 75 guests followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, with Miss Barbara Goodrich of Cincinnati, Miss Naomi Schirmer of Cincinnati and Miss Ruth Schiller of Athens serving. Surgical Dressings Center Volunteers Urgently Needed

A challenge to Marion women in the announcement today that the Marion County chapter of the American Red Cross has ordered 170,000 surgical dressings to be made and made immediately. With the invasion now under way Marion women and the millions of others throughout the country will be asked to volunteer hours, days or weeks to the making of these dressings if the men from Marion city and county and the millions of others now fighting overseas are to be assured of every protection should they be wounded and hospitalized.

It is just a proposition of putting our shoulder to the wheel and working consistently every day, Mrs. Richard Lawson, chairman of the surgical dressings committee said in discussing the tremendous job ahead.

On Friday of last week 46,000 bandages made by the women were shipped to headquarters. But this is only the proverbial drop in the bucket. The War Department is now asking that the Eastern area, which includes Marion, make up a quota of 20 million dressings for use in caring for the wounded men of the armed forces. And this number may be increased, the letter stated.

The women have been working and working hard during both the afternoons and evenings the surgical center, located in the Elks' building, has been open, but the attendance has been small, particularly during the afternoons.

Only four women reported for work when the center opened the afternoon following the invasion, the records show. The center is equipped to accommodate 30 workers very nicely and is open each afternoon Monday through Friday from 1 to 4 p. m. and on Monday and Friday night from 7:15 to 9:15. "The greatest need is for afternoon workers, particularly Monday and Wednesday," Mrs. Lawson said. The evening groups, made up for the most part of women and girls who work during the day, are the largest, the records show.

There are inconveniences at the center in the way of climbing the stairs, but the room is airy and pleasant, and this is of minor consequence in comparison with marching miles on end to the battle front, and as one faithful worker puts it, "what if your husband, son or brother was wounded in battle and the hospital ran out of dressings just before they came to him, all because you thought your help was not needed at the surgical dressings center!"

CHARGES WASTE OF CARS BY WORKERS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 12—ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson said today that if war workers as a group have the idea—as charged by the American Automobile Association—that they can wilfully waste cars and tires, "They should be ill advised of it."

Johnson's comment was prompted by a report in which the Association president, Thomas P. Henry, said the workers generally are reckless, fast drivers with a supreme indifference to car conservation.

"Hundreds of thousands of these war workers are driving cars for the first time," said Henry. "They are accorded top priority in cars, tires and gasoline and apparently proceed on the assumption that they have a divine right to replacement if a car is demolished or a tire destroyed."

Johnson said that undoubtedly there had been violations of the recommended 35-mile-an-hour speed limit and other measures taken to preserve cars and tires, but as for war workers being worst offenders he had seen no evidence differentiating drivers by groups.

Personal Mention

Thinking of the POST WAR PERIOD
A recent survey reveals that American people want above all a home of their own. The telephone is an indispensable part of any home. When Victory is ours and we can get materials we will have telephones for all who want them. But, right now, with material shortages, we must get along with less. The equipment which could be used here is serving our men, over there.

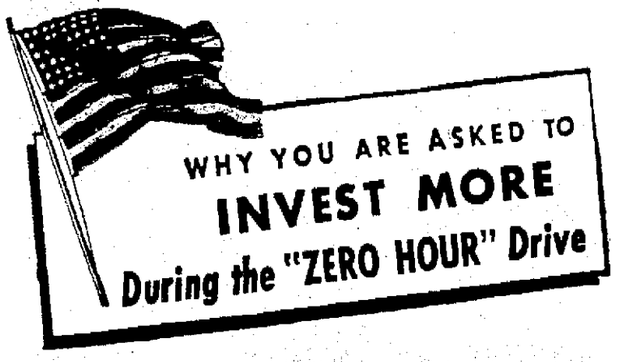
STARTS TODAY!

IT'S FOR INVASION! FOR VICTORY! FOR YOUR BOY!



NOW, AS America goes all out for invasion—your dollars must join the fight, too! No matter how much you have done—you must do more! It is a solemn duty for every American to buy MORE War Bonds during the 5th WAR LOAN DRIVE—to keep the attack going—to help safeguard your country and your own boys in the fight. The job is big—you've got to dig!

It's a question of simple arithmetic: War costs more today than ever—and during invasion, the demands for supplies reach their peak. A heavy bomber costs about $250,000. A 155 mm. howitzer costs $23,000. Fighter planes cost $50,000.

Invasion barges, tanks, field guns cost thousands upon thousands of dollars. Invasion demands more and ever more fighting equipment to insure Victory. The money must come from every patriotic American at home.

BOOST YOUR PLEDGE

As America faces its "Zero Hour", our armed forces march unflinchingly forward. They are ready to die if need be.

And now, on the home front comes the command—back up our fighting men with the biggest War Loan of all. This is the "Zero Hour" Drive. Our duty is clear . . .

If you are on the payroll savings plan, buy extra bonds in this drive.

If you buy War Bonds regularly at your bank or Post Office, double your War Bond investment. But, whatever you do, whoever you are, ask yourself this question: "What have I done today that some mother's son should die for me tonight?" Then buy your extra $100—or $200—or $300 Bond. It's for Victory!

MONDAY, JUNE 12, 1944

This Is "B-Day"

FOR Marion county residents and everyone else on the home front, this is B-Day.

It is the starting day for the Fifth War Loan drive, to continue through July 8 with a 16-billion-dollar goal as its objective.

In every community throughout the country armies of volunteer workers are going into the field to ask everyone to buy extra war bonds. Marion county's organization of workers, numbering approximately 1,000 persons, will make its final preparations to begin work in a rally at The Star auditorium tonight.

In two respects, the Marion county Fifth War Loan will be somewhat different from those that have preceded it. One new feature consists of more elaborate preparations to reach "every home in Marion county" with an appeal for all members of each household to buy as many extra bonds as possible. Never before has the workers' organization been so large or so thoroughly prepared to see that every home is reached. The other change is the determination of the Marion County War Finance committee to reach the big goal this time by means of "straight selling."

In the meetings held to prepare workers for their big job, they have heard Herman J. Sheedy, area War Finance committee chairman, comment on possible dangers in this campaign. He mentioned that some persons feel they have done their share of bond buying or working in bond drives. And he answered this by saying our fighting men have not done their share in this war until peace comes, and by the same yardstick those at home have not fulfilled their obligations in bond buying until the war is over.

Hand in hand with this danger, he mentioned another, that too many persons would buy an extra $18.75 bond in the Fifth War Loan and feel that in doing this they had done their full share. Pointing to the increased quota, which is 18.6 per cent higher than in the Fourth War Loan, he emphasized that Marion county residents and others throughout the nation must support the drive to the limit of their ability if the goal is to be reached.

All this simmers down to the one question that is all-important in the Fifth War Loan, and the answer rests alone with each individual. It is, "How much should I invest in war bonds in the Fifth War Loan?"

Drive workers and leaders have agreed there are some persons who because of unusual circumstances can not buy many extra bonds between today and July 8. In some cases, they may not be able to buy any. Workers have been urged not to embarrass anyone in such circumstances, because all that is being asked from anyone is to buy to the extent of his ability. But by the same rule, they are determined to sell the thought in this campaign that "the extent of ability" of each individual is measured on the right basis. Buying so many bonds that a few personal pleasures must be given up temporarily isn't to be regarded as making any great sacrifice. In the words of one drive leader, "I think all of us can give up a few pleasures for a few weeks if the extra bonds we can buy that way will help get our boys back sooner. After all, their sacrifices are much greater than any we can impose upon ourselves."

The main point is that you are the only person who knows how many bonds you can buy during the Fifth War Loan. Only you will know whether your order for bonds measures up to the "extent" of your ability to buy. And all that drive leaders are asking is that you think for a moment about the sacrifices of the men in service before you decide what that figure should be. They're confident that if your decision is reached after conscientious, serious thought, Marion county will go through the Fifth War Loan with flying colors.

One-Party Curse

THE shaky transfer of Italian authority from the uncertain hands of Victor Emmanuel III to Crown Prince Humbert, still an uncertain quantity, illustrates the difficulty of political stabilization in Europe. The prospect can be no brighter after the passing of this war than it was after its predecessor—and a generation of practice in the techniques of political intolerance probably will add even tougher complications.

Europe has sickened and suffered under the one-party curse. It has squandered the heritage of tolerance which the liberal movements of the late 19th century hoped might be cherished. Political ambition aims to establish exclusive authority to be maintained thereafter at all costs. Minorities have no rights which they cannot impose by revolution. There is no allowance for peaceful transfer of authority from one set of hands to another.

War's chaos has been an invitation to politicians and their followers to engage in a hectic scramble for early advantage in the first days of peace. Insofar as the Allies dare to hope for equitable settlements of rivalries at all, they only can hope the ultimately dominating authority will be reasonably representative of something that can be identified as a majority

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 12 — A lively but unnoticed political interest cut in the country over the confused status of the Atlantic charter as it fares before pending action in war-torn Europe has been freshly detected by the senate.

An astonishing number of requests have come in for copies of a speech by New Hampshire Republican Senator Bridges made in the senate May 23. Because the number was above 80,000, and it will run about 100,000.

About 40,000 of the first requests were from Protestant groups, 15,000 more from Catholics, the rest from other sources.

The public may recall the address, a criticism of Mr. Roosevelt giving naval vessels to Russia when Churchill would not let the Italian fleet go, and inasmuch as we still face a great naval war in the Pacific in which Russia is not involved?

Other Questions

This was only the introduction of the Bridges' speech which reached the headlines. The bulk of it was a less sensational inquiry into the status of the Atlantic Charter and Four Freedoms directed to Mr. Roosevelt and asking him:

"Have you lost the initiative in Europe?"

The news from Italy lately has only added to the popular confusion. The withdrawal of the king in favor of Crown Prince Umberto as "lieutenant general of the realm" has received varied interpretations. An Italian-American labor leader in Boston asserted the king was under communistic influence, but Umberto's position is being described as Fascist by the liberal press.

The pronouncements of the Vatican immediately after the freeing of Rome revealed no inkling of its political knowledge or intentions.

The Communist leader Browder has broadcast on our radio domestically an implication that some Catholic churchmen have accepted the validity of Russian indications of espousal of religion as against the atheism and agnostic ideologies formerly promoted and imposed on the Russians by the state. Incidentally but not necessarily significantly, Mr. Browder closed his address with an appeal to God in some connection or other.

Confusion

The only thing clear, therefore, is that there is confusion—therefore no agreement. Valid and authentic interpretations beyond this may be a long time coming.

It was supposed to be a laboratory for working out the conflicts, but political re-organization there so far has been too difficult for words, at least any official words from Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill, or Stalin.

The Communists are in control of almost all the European underground movements, and are, therefore, the most active political influence we are freeing not only in Italy, but in France and Poland, but throughout Europe.

Always in the past, they have used the words "freedom" and "democracy" as a far different sense than we do. Communism is to them one little to change the meaning. Most Communists would have freedom as we know it—freedom from hunger, freedom from fear, freedom from despotism, freedom from dictatorship.

Mr. Roosevelt has apparently temporarily with his fingers crossed behind his back, solely to get the war, and when this purpose was accomplished, it would revert to its original purpose. This is the private official explanation of Stalin's friendship neutrality treaty with Hitler when Poland was invaded and Britain was drawn into the war.

Many Suspicions

Suspicions therefore, are natural and will not easily be dispelled. If the transferring of an unexplained title of "lieutenant general" from the king to Umberto (later to be passed, some say, to Umberto's son) becomes a cover for an Italian Communist radical grasp for power, it is one thing. If it becomes only a cover for the confusion (as it most likely is) then the fruits of war are being ripened only on the outside pecking, and worms at the core will continue to work.

Certainly no evidence behind the news suggests anything more than dickering for control among the politicians of Italy now, evidence which has been available also concerning Poland, France, etc.

Yet in Italy, there is one force which is certainly Christian in its ideals—the ideals which Mr. Roosevelt rightly described May 27, 1941 (quoted in the Bridges speech) as being "the dignity of the human being, of the majesty of the human soul, in a world where moral standards are measured by treachery and terror and fifth columnists." (The President was then speaking of a Communist dictatorship.) It was this point of Christian ideology which brought so many inquiries for the Bridges speech.

Vatican's Position

The Vatican is not only "the best informed institution on earth," but well might be a great influence in Italy, Poland, France, etc., where there seem to be few Roosevelt Democrats, and as far as I can see it, the main power present to be used for maintenance of the Christian ideology along with the Church of England and various Protestant denominations on the continent.

This being the second most important subject in the world, second only to the necessities for our success in France—and due to the fact that I raised it at the outset when it was unpopular, and have pursued it without neglect in the face of criticism—I will have more on it tomorrow.

"PRE-VUE"

Turning Points in War

Historians Look for Decisive Battles

IF ALLIED landings proceed speed victoriously, the war against Germany may end before 1945. Yet, the present invasion of Europe, even if conclusive, may not seem to historians the decisive battle of the war, the one which turned the tide. In retrospect the decisive, as distinct from the conclusive battle, may seem to have been the Russian defense of Stalingrad in the fall of 1942.

Or, since the reopening of the Mediterranean was vital to the Allied effort, the turning point in World War II in the west may have come in the fall of 1942, when the Americans drove against the Germans in Africa from the west and the British from the east. Or, since the British were in Africa because they had stopped Rommel at El Alamein in the summer of 1942. El Alamein may have been the turning point of the war. Or, since the invasion of Europe is based on England, a commentator calling the decisive struggle of the war the battle of Britain in 1940, when the British survived the German air assault, could make a strong case.

Invasion of Europe has come, at long last, because the seas were kept open against German submarines. Perhaps the real turning point in the war was the successful anti-submarine campaign of the winter of 1942-43. As for the Pacific area, Gen. Marshall has written that the turn of the tide came in the early summer of 1942, in the battles of the Coral sea and of Midway.

IN World War I, also, the conclusive battle was not the decisive battle. The conclusive effort probably began on Aug. 8, 1918, when the Allies drove the Germans back around Amiens. It was then that Gen. Ludendorff, head of the German general staff, confessed Germany was beaten. But the German armies were driven back only because they had been stopped, in the previous month, in the second Battle of the Marne. At the first battle of the Marne, in 1914, they also had been turned back in their bid for victory.

The distinction between a conclusive and a decisive battle is seen in the Revolutionary war. The conclusive battle was Yorktown, in 1781. But Sir Edward S. Creasy in his "Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World," published in 1851, called Saratoga in 1777 the decisive battle. Benedict Arnold's capture of Burgoyne at Saratoga brought France into the war as the ally of the American colonies and made Yorktown possible.

Most Americans think of Gettysburg in 1863 as the decisive battle of the Civil war. Yet the south fought many hard battles, some of them victoriously, after Gettysburg. Furthermore, an ambitious southern attempt to invade the north had previously been stopped at Antietam. What broke the back of southern resistance was Sherman's capture of Atlanta in September, 1864. Perhaps the southern cause had previously become hopeless when Grant captured Vicksburg in 1863.

The conclusive defeat of Napoleon came at Leipzig in October, 1813. Waterloo in 1815 was really an aftermath, in Napoleon's quest for victory after his capitulation in 1814. But the decisive defeat of Napoleon came in 1812, when he had to retreat from Moscow after his invasion of Russia.

From the 12th to 14th century, the city-state of Florence was one of the wealthiest communities in Europe.

—What War Bonds Mean at the Front—

Jap Prisoners Look To Civilians for Freedom

WAITING: Life for Americans taken prisoner at Bataan is bearable only because they hope the home front will provide the weapons to set them free.

This is the first of a series of articles by Associated Press war correspondents on the value placed on war bonds at the fighting fronts. This one is by Russell Brines who spent most of 1942 in internment at Santo Tomas university in Manila. He was later repatriated to the United States. After two years in the AP bureau in Tokyo, he was transferred to Manila in time for the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Writer

SEVERAL thousand American boys, living under the prolonged agony of Japanese prison camps in Asia, are sustained by only one thought—the certainty of Allied victory.

They are weak, thin, ragged. They work long hours in the hot Philippine sun for little pay and only enough food to keep them alive. They work in the sweltering war plants of Manchuria and Japan, forced to turn out products that in some way bolster the Japanese militarists' war machine. They labor on the docks of Manila, Kobe, and Yokohama, degrading work. The summers are stifling, the winters bitter cold. They have few clothes.

Japanese sentries are everywhere. Their precautions against communication with the prisoners are thorough. Nevertheless, the news of American successes has slipped through to the prisoners. At night, when the sentries' shuffling feet emit only unpleasant echoes, these fragments of news can be brought out, examined, discussed, like the rich jewels they are in a prisoners' life.

Some 6,000 American civilian men, women and children live under similar circumstances, without the work, in a number of other camps. They, too, hear the news, and it makes the black days tolerable.

All of them know how difficult the job ahead is; how long the road; how much the cost yet to be computed. They know the Japanese have made it doubly expensive by their first quick blows which placed geography and distance on the conqueror's side. But the prisoners are convinced that Americans will spend all the money and make all the sacrifices necessary for victory. That is their faith.

You see, the civilians and the soldiers were out in front when economy was so disastrous. They tried to fight a well-prepared attacker with ancient or non-existent equipment, because money was being saved before the big blow came.

The prisoners have discussed those things. "We may have made plenty of mistakes before the war," they say, "but Americans don't make the same mistake twice.

Economy was one of the mistakes. Feeling that it will not be repeated, the prisoners are waiting anxiously for Allied forces to drive deeper and deeper into Asia. That is all that keeps them alive; those who are still alive.

The Barboy Speaks

"Why so peeved?" we asked Omar, the Fashioned Bartender.

"It gets me," he complained sourly.

"What gets you?"

"The OPA," he said. "It's snooping around trying to catch somebody making a cocktail. Each is entitled to a cocktail. Each is confronted with a national peril and the whole country."

And why not?" we said. "If anybody can sympathize with the customer in his battle against getting away beyond his financial means."

"It ain't that," said Omar. "I'm making a defense of the price the boss makes me charge a customer. But the OPA approach is all wrong, sister."

"Yeah?" it should pay some attention to the quality of the cocktail. The price ain't the thing. You can't consider a cocktail like you consider a can of beans, a pound of sugar or a peck of spuds. These OPA boys crack down on a guy who ups the price a nickel and makes a cocktail with the proper proportions and care and discretion. But the bum next door charges a quarter less and turns out a concoction a result of everything except watchful care and complete approval if not a certificate of merit."

He almost gets his "E," we suggested.

* * *

"Exactly," said Omar. "You can check the liquor, chisel on the formula and exercise the personal attention to details, and a cocktail at 60 cents is okay. But mix it as any barman should, always believing the customer entitled to a fair break, and get a few cents more for it and you're impeding the war effort."

"Some of the barboys sure are swingin' the ingredients," we observed.

"Ain't it criminal!" exclaimed Omar. "The old-timer ever chiseled on the main point? A good drink the way the newcomers make it would be lynched over the main entrance."

* * *

"A lot of the bartenders today do not look very expert," we remarked.

"Any member of the Tuesday Ladies' Bridge Club can make a better drink blindfolded and with one arm in a sling," said Omar. "But the worst part of it is that so many barboys have just don't give a damn. They take no pride in their profession. They don't give a whoop for a customer's approval. Some of 'em even seem to hope the drink they make is unsatisfactory."

* * *

"You should try making a complaint about a drink these days and see where you get off," we said.

"I know," said Omar. "The bartender, whose last job was at a gas station, tells you to shut up and like it. If you squawk to the proprietor he's so scared of trouble with the help that he just quotes you the new house rule."

"What's that?"

"The bartender is always right'," said Omar.

"What's the solution?" we asked.

"It ain't with that OPA," said Omar. "The only a good plan for the duration is to do your drinking at home. A guy seldom cheats himself, you know."

Information

By Truman Twill

If some of the skeptics want to point out that the press and radio have been spreading out precious dabs of official information about the invasion mighty thin, that's their privilege.

The only retort is that real information is rarely official. If we had to depend on official information, it would be a long time between tidbits. Information is everything under the sun and the wartime censorship.

It is Gen. Eisenhower standing on a hill and watching the planes roar away to the field of battle. It is Prime Minister Churchill deciding to go aboard a ship in the invasion fleet.

It is a picture of G. I. Joe huddled in the invasion boat. It is a report that mail from home was distributed to members of the expedition force while they were waiting for H-hour.

It is a report that the Russians are doing about the whole thing; that airplane pilots are flying themselves and their ships to a finish; that the weather over the English channel is getting better, instead of worse;

That William the Conqueror set sail from Normandy when he led the last great invasion of England; that an American newspaper woman wore slacks when she interviewed the Pope;

That the wounded are getting back to England and there aren't as many of them as there would were prepared to take care of; that some fellow named Epawiki did sensational things with a 40 mil. gun; that a radio announcer made a recording of the sounds on one of the landing boats on the big night.

Information is everything that helps us (plain, frustrated civilians) get the real feel of what fighting men are doing in the name of our country and our cause.

It is how to pronounce the names of the places they are fighting in and what the places look like and where they are. It is knowing that the things they are using were turned out in our factories, what they are wearing, eating and how it feels to be part of one of the extraordinary things men ever have done to salvage their security from the consequences of neglect.

Information, like life itself, is a lot of little things that can be put together to make a pot with a wallop—and official information is only one small part of it. We will relinquish all our rights to the communiques to the politics—and will lay them 10 to one we know more about what's going on than they will.

Action [illegible] other way by the executive committee may plunge the issue into the courts.

Party leaders in Washington are more worried about the Texas situation than that in Mississippi and South Carolina, where somewhat similar actions have been taken by Democratic conventions, because they suspect the root of the trouble lies in the Lone Star State.

Meanwhile politicians quickly interpreted appearance of the first of a series of eight articles Wendell L. Willkie has written on his ideas for the Republican platform as indicating the 1940 presidential nominee intends to support the ticket this year if he can see his way clear to do so.

Since his withdrawal after his defeat in the Wisconsin primary, Willkie has been silent about his plans.

In his first article, Willkie dealt with federal vs. state powers, a favorite topic with both Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who has the support of more instructed convention delegates than any other candidate, and of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, second in strength.

Willkie took a middle road, advocating "the substitution of government by law for government by caprice and unlimited discretions" rather than any "weakening" of federal powers.

Another week-end development was announcement by Senator Reynolds (D-NC) of the formation of "the American Nationalist Committee of Independent Voters," which he said would attempt to prevail on both major parties to adopt "America First" platforms.

Marion Youth Attends Boys' State Sessions

Don Cheney, son of Mrs. Miriam Cheney of 302 Chicago avenue, left Saturday to represent Bird McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, at the annual Boys' State being held on the campus of Otterbein college. Boys are chosen during their junior year of high school to go to the assembly. Scholastic ability and leadership are taken into consideration when candidates are approved by a committee of teachers. Usually more boys are sent to the meeting, but war has curtailed the use of larger quarters.

Boys' State members go through all activities of the state political and legislative system, electing officers from the governor on down.

Yanks 14 Miles from Cherbourg

Target of the warships [illegible] principally the [illegible] for by [illegible] virtually all [illegible] portion defense batteries [illegible] knocked out.

Invasion Beaches Secure

The invasion procedure [illegible] garrison as secure and progress inland along the whole front, now roughly 15 miles wide, was viewed officially today with [illegible] satisfaction.

The fight had reached the phase of exploiting the [illegible] successes and now, favored by the best weather since D-Day, the team of Gens. Montgomery and Bradley was expected to accelerate operations.

Sector by sector, this was the latest position:

Cherbourg—Whatever the [illegible] of enemy-reported parachutist landings east of the port, the Americans already were only 11 miles away in the out-skirts of Montebourg.

Valognes-Carentan—A broadened foothold across the Merderet river brought Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's doughboys within 10 or 12 miles of the Nazis' last road up the west side of the peninsula.

Carentan-Isigny—Less progress was made as the Americans slugged on yard by yard through water up to seven feet deep, closing in upon the Carentan stronghold from which the Germans control the defense flood system.

Lison-Trevieres — American gains rivaling the pace of the Merderet push penetrated the Cerisy forest some 10 miles from the mid-peninsula cross-roads town of St. Lo.

Tilly-Sur-Seulles—Held firmly as both sides poured armor into a tank battle for control of firm, rolling country 12 miles or more inland.

Caen—British and Canadians took all Marshal Rommel has yet been able to hurl at them, and according to field dispatches, fought forward doggedly to bypass the town on both sides.

The German radio said Allied pressure northward along the canal from Caen to the bay of the Seine had increased this morning.

Although Allied headquarters so far had made no claims to capture of Carentan, the German international information bureau's broadcast account of Allied attempts to advance beyond the town to the west and southwest implied the Nazi hold either was broken or fast slipping.

Rocket Planes in Action

Ferry terminals at the mouth of the Seine were shot up by RAF rocket Typhoons yesterday.

The Germans asserted their bombers sank a 7,000-ton Allied troop transport in the bay of the Seine last night and damaged another.

The aerial score for the 24 hours up to Sunday midnight.

Three German planes shot down (by patrolling "umbrella" fighters); 51 allied planes shot down, three of them American heavy bombers in yesterday's far-flung daylight attack, two of them in an RAF Mosquito attack on Berlin, and simultaneous mine-laying last night.

An improvement in the weather, which permitted RAF heavies to pound rail bottlenecks behind the German western front last night, gave the allied air arm a field day over France.

Medium and fighter-bombers spread havoc among Von Rundstedt's concentrations and fighters were working so closely in contact with ground troops today that they were able to spray destruction into Nazi front-line strongpoints holding up sector advances.

Despite German claims of E-boat attacks on a powerful allied convoy guarded by cruisers as it was crossing the western part of the bay of the Seine, SHAEF regarded the enemy's overnight E-boat action as on a diminished scale.

It was pointed out, however, the fight against the torpedo sims of German small boats must be regarded as a continuing battle, since the Germans have hundreds of them and so far have not dared to bring into the invasion zones anything larger than E-boats and destroyers.

Naval Leaders Confer

Yesterday Adm. Sir Bertram Ramsay, head of allied naval forces, visited the assault area on the British destroyer Kelvin, conferred with Rear Adm. Alan G. Kirk and Rear Adm. Sir Philip Vian, and declared himself "very satisfied with developments and the progress made."

Headquarters followed up midnight communique No. 12 with an official tribute to American progress yesterday on the beachhead, saying that the situation — "could not be better."

On the Americans' left wing, in the middle of the 50-mile sector the front, the doughboys liberated Lison 10 miles from the coast to the captured Isigny, and pushed north and east to the forest of Cerisy.

"Extremely good news," headquarters said of the American gains.

Cherbourg, whose fall would give the allies an excellent base for future operations, manifestly was a major objective.

The Germans said the allied command was striving for this port and planned to "make it a platform for the second phase of the invasion."

Tilly-Sur-Seulles, 12 miles southwest of Bayeux, was in British hands. This put most of the landing beaches out of range of German artillery.

Only five to six miles inland allied headquarters in proclaims. "The phase of securing the beachhead is nearing a successful end."

Nazis Show Great Power

Allied progress yesterday was aided by mighty aerial efforts. A thousand heavy bombers carried off one single mission.

The American drive from Lisbon in the center was aimed toward St. Lo, nine miles away, a highway center feeding a large part of Normandy.

An allied announcement declared rail yards, junctions and the airfield outside the city of Cherbourg were bombed and strafed during Sunday. The Germans claimed there were massive landings of troops and materiel on the east coast of the peninsula.

It was indicated the strategy of Marshal Erwin Rommel and Marshal Von Runstedt was to check and contain the allied beachhead, rather than to throw everything into an effort to wipe it out.

Trying hard to hold the railway junction of Valognes, four miles above Montebourg, the Germans battered at American airborne troops who had crossed the railway west of Ste. Mere Eglise. Headquarters said it was "very gratifying" that these Americans had stood their ground and that the Germans did not have the force to break their lines.

Lead U. S. Offensive

The first and 29th infantry divisions and the 82nd and 101st airborne divisions were in the van of the rolling American offensive under Gen. Bradley.

British and Canadian units found heavy going between Bayeux and Caen. The Germans used tanks in force in their efforts to break through around Caen.

Sunday's progress, on the whole, was called the biggest and most gratifying of the campaign. It was said officially that the Germans now never would be able to break the allied foothold in France.

In a message to his 21st army group Gen. Montgomery declared: "The allied armies have secured a good and firm lodgment on the mainland of France. . . . first we must thank Almighty God for giving us a good beginning; . . . second, we may pay tribute to the allied navies and air forces for their magnificent support; . . . third, I want to personally congratulate every officer and man on the splendid results of the past four days."

Club Presents Marion Composer in Recital

An appreciative audience attended a recital Sunday afternoon when the Lecture-Recital club presented Arthur Kellogg and his compositions in the ballroom of the Hotel Harding.

Except for the first group of two violin numbers, the entire program was made up of Mr. Kellogg's works. Two groups of piano numbers were played by the composer. He was assisted by Mrs. Earl Bale and Mrs. DeJon Mortal Hassell, vocalists, each whom sang a group of his songs.

The entire proceeds of the recital were presented as a gift to Mr. Kellogg in recognition of his ability as a composer. The event was in charge of Mrs. William Ackerman, philanthropic chairman of the club. Accompanists were Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. H. K. Mouser.

Fair Weather Spurs Activity at Airport

Several out-of-town planes landed here, the majority of fliers being students making cross-country training hops. Matthew Rose of Erie, Pa., landed here enroute to Indiana. Clyde Nelson of Urbana stopped on one part of a triangular hop from Urbana to Marion to Columbus. T. R. Steinbaum of Bucyrus stopped on his way to Columbus and J. P. Kastner of Columbus made a landing and returned to Columbus.

Several other training flights were made from Columbus and returned there.

AN AMERICAN BEACHHEAD CEMETERY, FRANCE, June 9—(Delayed)—Stretched out on their backs with their pitiful personal belongings lying beside them on this bomb-blasted, shell-scorched bit of the Normandy beach lie the American dead—men and boys who paid the supreme price for wresting this strongly fortified position from the Nazis in a daring daylight amphibious assault.

They lie here mutely waiting while troops dig long trenches for temporary mass burial. Nearby, also awaiting burial, are the bodies of 10 Germans and two Britons.

Negro troops digging these common graves labor silently with an occasional awed glance at the stiff forms under the white covers that had been thrown over them.

This is America's first cemetery in France in this war. It is not a pretentious place. A few days ago it was a German minefield separating the beach defenses from the rugged pill boxes and forts in a steep hill that rises a few hundred yards from the ugly, rock strewn beaches.

When the Americans swarmed onto the beaches through murderous surf, angry German guns mowed them down. The cold, greedy water of the wrathful channel, lashed by a three-day wind, clutched at some, sucking them down.

Another cemetery is being prepared nearby because this hallowed ground is too small to care for the men who will not fight again.

Assistant Pastor Takes Over Duties

Appointed as assistant pastor of Calvary Evangelical church for the summer, Rev. Wendell Freshley of Homeworth, O., has taken over his duties here and he and Mrs. Freshley are directing music for the union Vacation Bible school which opened this morning at the Pearl street school. Rev. Freshley will assist Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor, in pastoral work here until annual conference of the Evangelical church which convenes at Lorain Aug. 16-20 when he will be assigned a pastorate elsewhere.

Oil lamps were used to light New York streets in 1762.

AIR WAR

The big thunderbolts of the RAF, in their seventh straight night of invasion-supporting raids, ranged over France last night all the way from the Paris area to the west coast port of Nantes.

They bombed the rail junctions at Evreux, Nantes, Tours and Massy-Palaiseau, Nantes and Tours, respectively 225 and 136 miles southwest of Paris, are junctions through which Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's embattled forces might receive reinforcements from the German army group in the south of France. The Evreux and Massy-Palaiseau junctions are potential channels for German reinforcements to the area of heavy fighting around Caen. Evreux is only 70 miles east of Caen.

Mosquitos Hit Berlin

The blow against Berlin was delivered by twin-engined Mosquitos which pounded the German capital with 4,000-pound bombs.

Nearly 7,000 allied planes, flying in support of the Normandy offensive yesterday, gave the Germans the heaviest series of daylight blows since the invasion began.

Across Europe U. S. heavy bombers took off from new bases in Russia and bombed Balkan air fields of the axis yesterday during their return trip to the Italian bases they left June 2.

Both on the outbound trail-blazing shuttle trip to Russia and on the homeward journey the American heavy bombers were personally commanded by Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, chief of the allied Mediterranean air force.

"Every inch" of enemy positions along the 50-mile-long Normandy battle front was declared scourged by yesterday's blows. These attacks, plus flight from Russia, provided the final dramatic touch to a week-end which saw the allies give these further demonstrations of their mastery of the air over Europe:

1—Allied planes were declared Saturday to be flying from French soil for the first time since 1940.

2—Squadrons of Italian-based U. S. Lightnings went out on the longest fighter-bomber mission ever flown in the Mediterranean theater Saturday, and attacked the last major refinery still producing for Germany in Romania's Ploesti oil fields.

3—RAF heavy bombers delivered a huge blow Saturday night against the rail yards at Versailles and Acheres near Paris and the Orleans yards 90 miles from the fighting front in France. Mosquito planes hit Berlin both Friday and Saturday night.

1,000 Planes in Attack

One thousand U. S. heavy bombers spearheaded yesterday's aerial operations in support of the Normandy beachheads. They smashed at nine enemy airfields, eight bridges, a German army headquarters and other objectives from the beachhead to Paris and as far north as the Pas De Calias area.

Allied aerial losses over France yesterday were 26 planes, most of them victims of German anti-aircraft guns. In all operations, a total of nine German planes were reported knocked down—five of them by the Eighth air force.

The RAF lost 20 heavy bombers during the attacks Saturday night on French rail yards, while six German fighters were brought down. The Mosquito raid on Berlin Saturday night and the simultaneous mine-laying operations in enemy waters cost two planes. Patrolling allied fighters shot down 10 Junkers 88s, of which nine were blasted over the battle area and one over the ocean.

In other operations from Italian bases yesterday, Liberators bombed oil storage facilities at the Romanian Black sea port of Costanta and Giurgiu on the Danube river south of Bucharest. Liberators and Fortresses bombed rail yards and oil installations at Smederovo in Yugoslavia.

Allied headquarters in Italy named only the Focsani airdromes near Galati, Romania, as the targets of the bombers flying back to Italy from Russia.

(However, a communique from the eastern command, U. S. strategic air forces in Russia, announced that more than 1,000 American planes, based in Russia and Italy and supported by Russian fighters, teamed up to blast targets at Constanta and Giurgiu in Romania and Smederovo in Yugoslavia.)

BOYS STATE ELECT

By The Associated Press

WESTERVILLE, O., June 12—The annual Ohio Boys State today began operating its state and local governments under the guidance of "governor" Richard A. Secrist of Massillon. Secrist was elected yesterday as governor of the boys state, set up each year by the American Legion to give training to boys of high school age in the functions of government. Today the legislature, also elected yesterday, met and other officials assumed their duties.

Allied Grip On France Firm, but Danger Not Over

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The battle of [illegible] and nature [illegible] as [illegible] rapidly [illegible] sides, but [illegible] are [illegible] fighting [illegible] a [illegible] less than [illegible] Montgomery [illegible] that the Allies [illegible] have secured a firm and [illegible] lodgement on the mainland of France."

We don't [illegible] that the Allies have passed the danger [illegible] the issue of the battle [illegible] Field Marshal [illegible] throws in the main body of his armored strategical [illegible] an all-out counter-attack. We should have our [illegible] that assault has been [illegible] since it can be a [illegible]

However Rommel himself is in a mighty tight corner. His problem [illegible] that of dealing with the Cherbourg peninsula alone, but of shielding the entire coastline of northern Europe and southern France. If he sends great strength against the peninsula, he lays himself open to Allied amphibious [illegible] at numerous other strategic point. He might handle one but he can't deal with all of them satisfactorily at the same time.

No Choice But to Fight

Still, he has no choice but to defend the peninsula to the best of his ability. This great battle is one of the crucial engagements of the war, for while Rommel couldn't prevent the Allies from establishing a second front by defeating them at Cherbourg, yet he might delay our ultimate success greatly.

So we must expect the Nazis to attack in force in the immediate future and try to drive the Allies back into the sea. One of our most powerful weapons against this assault will be our vast superiority in the air. We shall depend heavily on that to deal with enemy concentrations of troops and tanks, and with movements on railways and highways leading to the peninsula.

Another tower of strength rests in the allied warships lying off Cherbourg. You will note that today's communique says "enemy mobile batteries have been under heavy fire from allied warships." The great naval guns not only have been ironing out batteries, but are working on enemy concentrations. Their fire is directed by warplanes—the eyes of land and sea gunners.

Still Landing Troops

Despite the bad weather, the allies have continued to land troops and supplies. The Germans today estimate the allied forces at between 20 and 25 divisions—four or five being paratroop divisions. With divisions at normal strength that might mean some 300,000 men. We are lucky if we have that many.

The immediate allied aim is to isolate the peninsula by slashing across the base, and to take the port of Cherbourg. This ambition involves the capture of the big and heavy defended railway and highway junctions of Caen, Saint Lo and Carentan. As a counter move, the Germans are attacking both allied flanks on the fifty mile front growing out of the beachheads.

The allies are getting ahead with the job, for todays reports place a spearhead half way across the peninsula. Particularly heavy fighting was proceeding in the area of the three railway junctions, and the German controlled Paris radio said that allied paratroops were attacking a Nazi force east of Cherbourg.

Encircling Attack

At Caen, where bitter fighting has been proceeding almost since the earlier landing, General Montgomery today launched an encircling attack on the town with Canadian and British troops. The capture of this place is of great importance, because it is the main direct gateway of approach for Rommel's reinforcements. Meantime American forces were driving towards St. Lo from the northeast.

And don't overlook the grand news from Moscow. The Russians have launched an offensive which is sweeping into Finland—Hitler's left flank. The great millstones finally are grinding on both sides of Hitler.

Nation Opens Fifth War Loan Today

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 12 — The treasury set out today—"civilian D-day"—to raise $16,000,000,000 in the Fifth War Loan drive.

The major effort was directed to raising $6,000,000,000 of the total from individuals' purchases of war bonds—nearly $1,000,000,000 more than individuals invested in the fourth war loan.

Only such purchases will be reported until June 26, after which the campaign will be aimed at raising $10,000,000,000 from other non-banking investors. Commercial banks will be permitted to subscribe to limited amounts of certain kinds of bonds, but these purchases will not be credited to the drive.

Tonight President Roosevelt, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, governors of five gulf southwest states and a host of stage, screen and radio performers will join in an hour-long radio program to be broadcast over the four major networks starting at 10 p. m.

The major portion of the program will originate in Texarkana, on the border of Texas and Arkansas, where a day of activities is scheduled. Texarkana was chosen for the focal point of the drive, treasury officials said, because of its two-state location.

Army Uses Fabric Slings on Rifles To Save Leather

By The United Press

WASHINGTON—The use of web slings for Army rifles has conserved a substantial amount of leather and saved the government $2,000,000 since last September, the War Department announced.

The slings which permit soldiers to carry rifles across their shoulders were made of leather until the Quartermaster Corps and Army Ordnance decided webbing could be used.

Guns issued with leather slings were not recalled for replacement with webbing. But as the leather wears out web slings will be substituted. Almost all new rifles now have the fabric sling.

Seven Winners Driven by Fitzpatrick in Race Meet

Illinois Reinsman Captures All Three Events on Card.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT
Marion Star Sports Editor

IN A PEERLESS exhibition of competitive sulky driving believed to be unparalleled locally and in many parts in national harness racing history, Harry Fitzpatrick of Dupuoin, Ill., made a clean sweep of Saturday night's Little Grand circuit card at the County Fairground track and registered seven victories out of the nine heats raced.

Fitzpatrick drove the winning horses in all three races, the $600 Curtis Auto Parts stake for 12 class pacers, the $300 26 trot and the $300 Anthony Laundry free-for-all pace. He directed Direct Radium, a brown gelding to triumph in all three heats of the open-ing 12 pace, rallied to cop the last two heats of the 26 trot and won Lydiamite, a brown filly and [illegible] the final event, the free-for-all pace, by finishing [illegible] with the highly-rated King's Counsel, a [illegible] gelding, in the first [illegible]

The three winners driven by Fitzpatrick are owned by the C. J. Baker stable of St. Charles, Ill. Baker stable's [illegible] and trainer. This stable, in addition to the three horses that triumphed Saturday night, includes Volo Song, 1943 Hambletonian winner and five other better-grade horses. Total value of the Baker-owned and trained horses entered for the meeting here is approximately $120,000.

Fitzpatrick, has appeared in several previous Little Grand Circuit meetings here and drove in the special three-day meet at the fairgrounds last September held in conjunction with the filming of scenes from "Home in Indiana." He is recognized as one of the country's leading drivers.

HARRY FITZPATRICK

Fitzpatrick was the man of the hour in Saturday night's Little Grand Circuit races with seven victories out of the nine heats run. He won all three races.

Fitz Takes Lead

With the three wins Saturday, Fitzpatrick took a two-heat lead over Sep Palin, veteran Indianapolis sulky-pilot, in the annual race for meet driving laurels. Palin scored five wins on Friday's program but was able to capture only one race, dividing his other two heat victories between the remaining two races on the card. In the two heats which Fitzpatrick did not win, his horse finished sixth. Lydiamite finishing in that position in the first heat of the second race and King's Counsel winding up last in the final session of the free-for-all pace.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 attended Saturday night's program. Again race officials expressed surprise at the gate, since the weather Saturday was anything but balmy and conducive to attendance at an outdoor sports event.

Tonight, the fourth night of the meeting which will be concluded Saturday, June 24, will feature the Marion Grain and Supply Co., stake with a purse of $1,000. This is for 15 class trotters. Other races will be the 26 trot and 21 pace.

Fitzpatrick's Direct Radium was the front horse for practically the entire mile distance in all three heats of the first race. He won the first and second heats by a half length over Jessie Nutonia. The third heat was won by a length and a half over the same place horse. This race was somewhat unusual in that the first three horses in the race finished 1, 2, 3 in that order in each heat.

Easy Touch

The second race was such an easy touch for Fitzpatrick as he had to do some fancy "pressure" driving with Lydiamite to take off top prize in the $300 purse. The first heat of the race was won by Frisco Don who led virtually all the way. He carded the half in 1:06. Guy E. Watts led going into the homestretch but faded in the final 200 yards and finished second. Frisco Don won by two lengths. Lance Bunter took the lead at the start of the second heat but was overtaken by Rosa Catsleton at the half. Rosa was in front through backstretch and then, at the upper turn, Fitzpatrick's Lydiamite began to make a bid and took the lead going into the stretch. He won by a length and a half. Fitzpatrick didn't take any chances in the third heat and took the lead position at the start. Frisco Don began to run strongly in the backstretch but couldn't catch Lydiamite, who won the heat in 1:13 mile the 9-16 of a mile course.

The second race provided what was one of the biggest place prices in local harness racing mutuel records. Myrtle Maid, second place horse in the second heat, returned $35.20 and $9.20. The daily double Saturday night, combining the winners of the first heats of the second and third races, Frisco Don and King's Counsel paid $14.20.

Sold By Parshall

King's Counsel, which was sold to the Baker stable for $20,000 by Dr. Hugh M. Parshall of Urbana, copped the first two heats of the last race but in slightly different fashion. Prince Yakima was ahead at the outset in the first heat but King's Counsel grabbed the initiative in the backstretch of the first half and ran the half mile in 1:07½. He won in the average time of 2:10½. The Counsel displayed one of the greatest bursts of speed ever witnessed on the fairgrounds track in the second heat about 100 yards from the pole marking the half. Counsel was well back in the field for most of the first half but suddenly moved up and took the lead in the first few yards of the second tour of the course. He won by three lengths. King's Counsel broke in the final heat but already had the race sewed up and had been barred from betting in the last session. Prince Yakima won the heat by a length over F. R. G.

Guests at the Saturday night program were the players on the Marion Ohio State league baseball team. They were introduced to the crowd by Marion Hinkin, Marion county treasurer.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., June 12—The Lima Red Birds of the Ohio State league have signed three Cuban players, first to appear in the loop this season. All were in spring training with the Washington Senators. OHIO STATE LEAGUE BATSMEN EXPERIENCE EARLY JUNE SLUMP

Senko Retains Lead with .398 Mark; Garver Heads Pitching Department.

Ohio State league batters underwent a general slump in games May 30 and June 6 but the leaders still retained fat averages, figures released by the Howe News Bureau of Chicago, official league statistician, showed today.

Steve Senko, keen-eyed Middletown Red Sox outfielder, dropped 21 points in a week but managed to maintain a highly comfortable lead among State league batsmen. His .398 mark for games up to and including those of June 8 ranks 57 percentage points above the average of Runner-Up Harvey Zernia, Lima first baseman, who has .341. Roy Eder, Zanesville outfielder, slumped only four digits and is still third with a .339 average.

Red Garver, accomplished Newark right hander, still heads the list of Ohio State league pitchers with seven victories and one defeat for an .875 mark. He leads in strike outs with 60 in 75 innings.

Outside of percentages, Neil Renoe, rugged Lima outfielder is the State's loop's big slugger. He has driven the most runs across the plate, cracked out the most doubles, nine, scored the most runs, 36, compiled the largest number of total bases, 78 and is tied with teammate Zernia for home run honors with four. Herb Schmiedeke, another Lima player, leads in stolen bases with 11. Eder of Zanesville is tops in triples with five and Senko, who doesn't hit for distance, has poked the most hits, 53.

Shortstop Bronkal heads regular Marion players in hitting according to Howe figures, with a .333 mark for games up to June 6. Catcher Joe Bellamy has .316 and Utility Man Virl Minnis is batting at a .314 clip. Francis "Red" Bailey leads Marion hurlers with five wins and three defeats and Eric Schultz has a 3-2 record.

Lima, although it fell into the second division in the league race Saturday, has the best team hitting mark with .284. Middletown leads in team fielding with .937. Marion is fifth in both departments, having a composite mark of .252 in plate work and .918 afield.

Following are Ohio State league averages for games up to and including June 6:

Contest To Pick All-Star Teams Under Way Today

Today marks the start of the contest for Marion and vicinity baseball fans to select teams for the Ohio State league All-Star game to be held July 12.

The game will be played in the park of the city whose team is leading the league July 11. The All-Star team will be composed of players from the other five teams and will be managed by the pilot of the club that is in second place July 1.

Contests are being conducted by the papers in each of the league cities to select All-Star teams. If you pick 'em good enough you might win two seasons passes to Ohio State league games. This is the reward for the person in each city whose selections correspond most closely with the All-Star team. The person whose selections are second best will receive one season pass.

Contest entrants are asked to select five infielders, four outfielders, two catchers and four pitchers. Selections should be mailed to the Star not later than Wednesday, June 28 since the deadline for entries to be filed with League President Frank M. Colley is June 30. So get busy with your pencil and paper and baseball brains.

The All-Star game is being sponsored jointly by league management and the Ohio State loop chapter of the baseball writers' association of America.

Locals in Fifth Place Following Even Break with Springfield.

AT LONG LAST after over a month of pitiful failure the Marion baseball team is performing like the Marion baseball team of last year. Manager Cubs have crept out of the Ohio State league cellar.

While the locals were splitting a doubleheader with Springfield at Lincoln park Sunday afternoon, winning the first game 6 to 3 and being trounced in the second, 9 to 5, Zanesville, Springfield, Marion and Lima, all tied for fifth place up to Saturday, were losing both ends of a twin bill in Lima after dropping a Saturday night game to the Red Birds of Cuff "Rube" Manville. Zanesville dropped the Saturday game 6 to 0 to Lima and was shut out 14 to 0 yesterday, 14 to 0 and 2 to 1.

These results place Marion in fifth place a full game ahead of the faltering Dodgers of Jack Knight and a half games behind the next league leaders Middletown. The Middies took over top spot by winning two out of three week-end games with the now second position Newark Moundsmen. The Red Sox decision the Moundsmen 7 to 6 Saturday night and after dropping the opener, 7 to 4 took the nightcap of a doubleheader 5 to 2. Lima's three wins put the Red Birds into third place a half game ahead of Springfield.

Marion's ascendency to fifth place marks the first time since the league season opened May 2 that the locals have not shared or owned outright last place. Their continual cellar position largely can be laid to the fact that the Cubs lost their first six games in succession. Since that unimpressive skein Glover Hartley's club has played .500 percentage ball, winning and losing 15 games.

What was probably the season's largest crowd at Lincoln park, about 1,200 fans were present yesterday to see the locals effect another of their now famous doubleheader splits. Of this total, 1075 were cash customers. The newly-erected bleachers along the third base line with a capacity of about 400 were filled and the grandstand seating some 1,000 was packed except for a remote corner at the top.

Yesterday's twin bill was the final appearance of the locals on the Lincoln park field until Sunday, June 25 when they meet the Zanesville Dodgers. The Cubs are on the road throughout the Marion Little Grand Circuit meeting which runs through June 24.

At Lima Tonight

Tonight, Marion opens a four-game series with the Lima Red Birds at Halloran park, Lima. All games in this series, as well as all week-day games on their long road trip, will be night affairs starting either at 8:15 and 8:30. After the Lima series Marion travels to Newark to engage the Moundsmen in three games.

The Cubs ran up all six runs in the first three innings to down Springfield in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader. A total of 20 hits were belted in the first game but none of these were for extra bases. In the second tilt, however, eight extra base blows were registered, cut of another hit total of 20.

Center Fielder Bill Morneweg first scored for Marion in the first stanza on a single to left field by Catcher Joe Bellamy. Morneweg got on base by a walk. First Baseman Chuck Barney slid safely in home when Jim Daues Springfield catcher, dropped the ball in an effort to tag him. Bellamy and Virl Minnis checked in on a single by Shortstop Bill Bronkal who had gone to second on a throw home from the Springfield outfield, came in on a single to left by Lou Funk. That ended Marion's first inning scoring. In the third, Funk tallied on a single by Don Phipps after getting on by virtue of a fielder's choice and stealing second.

INVASION ZONE SEES ALLIES FORGING AHEAD. The battle of Normandy, now in its first stages following the invasion of the French coast, continues to add up successes for the Allied forces while in the background the war arena in Western France stretches back from the coast about 100 miles where the "inland Atlantic wall" of the enemy (1) is said to run through Le Mans to points above Paris. On the Cherbourg peninsula, (2) which the invaders seek to cut, and possibly drive on Cherbourg itself, the Allies have cut across main roads, continue to take more points near their beachheads and threaten Carentan and Caen. Reconnaissance planes bring back reports that Germans are trying to rush supplies and men (3) toward the coast battle zone. Today's news reports announced that the Americans had captured Carentan.

Five-Day Clothing Drive for Civilians of Liberated Italy To Begin Tuesday

War Relief Services, a national organization for the relief of the civilian population of Liberated Italy, has completed plans for a five-day March drive to provide food, clothing and medical supplies to liberated Italy, local officials of the organization announced today. The drive will start Tuesday.

War Relief Services has been organized nationally and will cater for the victims of the war, including refugees, evacuated children, prisoners of war, and stricken civilian populations. This agency is approved and certified by the President's War Relief Control Board.

The local committee of this agency, organized in Marion, includes the following members: Joseph A. Sansotta, chairman, Adolph Bianchi, Peter Cataldo, Natale Mariani, Thomas Noll, Rumino Nicolosi, Ross Nicolosi, Emmanuel Pruzzo and N. Chiafo.

The Women's committee is comprised of the following members: Mrs. Flora Cataldi, chairman, Mrs. Mary Bianchi, Mrs. Hazel Bianchi, Mrs. Teresa Fresina, Mrs. Esther Piacentino, Mrs. Antoinette Ross, Mrs. Catherine Sansotta, Mrs. Virginia Sansotta and Miss Helen Sansotta.

For the convenience of the collection of clothing, the city has been divided into four districts. All types of practical and useful clothing will be accepted. Since shipping-space to Italy is quite limited, the best-condition meeting will be sought.

The chairman of the North Side district is Joseph Sansotta. His telephone number is 2591. Chairman of the East Side district is Ross Nicolosi, telephone 3855. Chairman of the West Side district is Peter Cataldi, telephone 3751. In the South Side district Emanuel Pruzzo is chairman, telephone 8873.

While Americans of Italian descent will be the principal workers in clothing collection, citizens of the city and county of Marion who are of Russian descent are being asked to bring to the basement of the Main street building which will serve as a receiving center during the collection campaign by phone with any of the above district chairmen. Chairman Sansotta said today. The collection of clothing will run through Saturday.

Couple Exchange Vows at Church in Galion

GALION, June 12—Returning from two years service in the Aleutians, Robert L. Walker, carpenter's mate, first class of the United States Navy, took Miss Florence Belle Shaw, as his bride, Sunday evening, in a service at First Methodist church.

The single ring service was read at 7:30 p. m., Sunday, by Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the church, in the presence of friends and relatives.

The latter part of June, the bridegroom will go to San Francisco for reassignment following his 30-day leave which was spent in Galion. He was graduated from Galion High school in 1938, and before he entered the service he helped his father, John Walker, Galion building contractor.

The former Miss Shaw is bookkeeper at First National bank.

Red Birds in Crucial Series with Milwaukee

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers, whose magic powers at home may be waning, tonight play host to the Columbus Red Birds to launch a series that would knock the props from under the Wisconsin crew's six game lead in the American Association.

The second-place Red Birds yesterday bagged a pair at Kansas City, 4-2 in 13 innings and 9-1 in the seven-inning nightcap, thus gaining a full game on the Brewers who divided at home with Toledo, dropping the opener, 4-3, and winning the afterpiece, 7-5.

AUTO SHARES ARE IN DEMAND

Buying Spreads To Other Industrial Groups in Rapid Turnover.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 12 — Shares in automotive and related concerns expected to benefit from police wage demand today in the stock market, and the buying tension to spread to other industrial groups.

In high gear from the opening, the lower-priced motors appeared in blocks of 1,000 to 11,000 and swelled first-hour transfers to 560,240, highest for that period since May 4, 1943.

Prominent and higher were Continental Motors, Graham-Paige, Hudson, Packard, Hupp Motor, Studebaker, Radio Corp., Nash-Kelvinator, International Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors and U. S. Steel.

Razor Blade, Safety Pin Make Yank Radio Work

NEW YORK, June 12—A capsule radio set having an old razor blade and safety pin for a detector actually works, writes Lieut. Mayne L. Rupert from Italy. He sent along a diagram and full description.

A replica made up at NBC backed everything he said in the letter to the Marlin Firearms Co. Engineers explained detection was due to the fact the double-edged blade had a plated surface.

CHINA

sided threat to Changsha, he added, had brought the China war to its most furious peak in six years.

The other four Pacific battle fronts were going well for the Allies. From New Dutch New Guinea bases Allied airmen flew heavy bombers against Palau for their first daylight raid on this island group guarding the eastern Philippines. It was a portent of the new turn Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippines-bound campaign has taken.

Adm. Chester Nimitz' forces almost simultaneously smashed at Guam and other enemy bases in the Mariana chain of islands, also protecting the Philippines from the east. Palau in the Carolines and the Marianas form a defense wall the American commanders must breach to reach the Philippine Islands and China.

Stilwell Holds Airfield

Allied forces moved half a mile deeper into Myitkyina, main enemy North Burma base controlling the Burma-China road. The city has been under siege for weeks and is all but isolated. Its airport is in Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's hands.

Chinese pushing toward Myitkyina from southwest China captured Lungling, enemy base on the upper Burma road, hailing the feat as their most important of the Salween offensive. The Chinese announced that now the China end of the famed road could carry supplies to the Salween army, heretofore dependent on mountain trails.

MARKET WEAKNESS

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I WONDERED if Hugh guessed that bringing Roderick's name into the discussion was the surest, way, the only way, of getting instant acquiescence to his insistance that he escort me through the dark attic where we nared shoes no light except a flashlight held close to the floor.

I have always wanted to do things for myself. It took a long time, and several conjugal spats, before I learned to subordinate my natural desire for independent movement to my husband's wish to protect me, to coddle me, even, occasionally, to "boss" me.

Loves Attentions

In the years I have toned down my willfulness, and Dicky his "king on a throne" attitude, I have learned to love his attentions. But I subconsciously resent any attempt on the part of any other man to treat me as though I were a "clinging vine."

The idea that I could not traverse the dark attic with a flashlight in my hand without a masculine escort roused all my contrariness. I am afraid I should have flared out at Hugh, if he had not said—I hoped guilelessly—"I promised Roderick."

That brought me up short. Nothing is more precious to me than the boyish chivalry of my two boys, Junior, our son, and Roderick, Dicky's nephew, doubly orphaned, but brought up as Junior's brother. They are almost absurdly protective and authoritative, and I revel in it, to Dicky's great amusement.

So it was that I took my hand from the door knob, and stood meekly by, while Hugh opened it, escorted me through it, and touched the switch at the bottom of the stairway, the twin to the one at the top, which put on the lights. Then, steadying my elbow as though I were an invalid, he walked behind me up the narrow winding stairway, touched the spring which swung open the masked chimney, ushered me through, put out the light, and stepping to my side, closed the chimney stone.

In Darkness

For the fraction of a second, which to my imagination seemed an hour, we stood in the darkness, his hands closing protectively on my arms. Then, with a sigh that seemed to come from the soles of his shoes, he took one of his hands away, and the next instant the gleam of a flashlight showed on the floor in front of us.

"Come on," he said, and guided me along the path of the light, to the door which opens on the stairway to the second floor. In accordance with our plan to let no gleam of light come from the attic to any chance passer-by on the outside, he switched off the stair light, opened the door, ushered me through, closed it after us, and then guided me down the stairs to the door opening on the hall. This he opened, and then stepping with me into the light of the hall, he released his grip upon my arm.

"Will this take you very long?" he asked.

"Less than five minutes," I answered.

"Then I shall wait here for you," he said.

Decision Adament

I wasted no time in demurring, mainly because I knew his decision was adament.

"I shall hurry," I said and going to the top of the stairs leading to the first floor called softly: "Boys!"

Both of them bounded up the stairs almost immediately.

"I'm going to ring the gong from the secret chamber simply as practice," I said, "but don't want anybody to be startled. One of you go at once to Jim and Katie, and tell them not to mind when the gong rings. The other stay here, while I go and talk to Granzie."

"It's your turn, Jun, to stay with your mother," Roderick said. "Besides, I won't have to go very far."

"Why?" I asked.

Both boys gave chuckling laughs.

"Because Katie's made up her mind that you and everybody else should have buckwheat cakes tomorrow morning, so she's so glad everything until she's set her way."

"Everybody ought to be glad," I said, echoing their laugh, as I turned from them to go to my mother-in-law.

Curious

But I didn't have to go but a step or two. My mother-in-law was advancing toward me, lively curiosity in her face.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you, Mother!" I exclaimed, "I just wanted to tell you that I'm going to test the mechanism of that gong from the secret room, so that Hugh can use it tomorrow if he wishes. Then the boys won't have to take turns staying down in the secret room for Hugh can signal if any emergency arises."

"That will be fine," she said. "But do you think the mechanism will work?"

"I don't know," I said. But I wanted you to be prepared for the sound of the gong, and also if Faith awakens."

"I'll go directly to her," she said, and I turned back to see Roderick coming from the kitchen.

"Katie's all excited," he reported, "but she won't faint or anything."

"Then I'll go back to the secret room," I said.

"And I'll go with you," said Junior.

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Body Development

The growth of the body, a phenomenon going on under our eyes every day, is indeed so familiar that it has lost its magic and wonder for us. But nothing more beautiful and intricate and delicate could be imagined. If the finest engineer in the world with all the best technical experts he could choose were to go at it with the materials Nature has at hand I guarantee he would make a botch of it of monumental proportions. Yet old Mother Nature accomplishes it time after time with very few mistakes and all too often for the sake of the emotions of her audience with astonishingly gratifying results.

Oh, the engineer could hack out the rough models of arms, legs and torso and put a clothing dummy together well enough. But suppose he had to do it little cell by little cell, and with the chemical supply for new material being delivered just so much every day and each day every part grew just so much proportionately to the others—this arm grew a little and the other arm exactly as much and both grew in proportion to the growth of the legs and the skin grew to cover it all, and the hair and teeth sprouted to make it look presentable. Yes, quite a building job Mother Nature does.

Let us consider some of the features of it. We start out with a little roly-poly ball of human flesh with its arms and legs very short and its head and abdomen very big. The bones begin to grow and the form begins to mould, the chest grows faster than the abdomen and both grow faster than the head. Then at adolescence it shoots up with great speed and looks as if it were going to be all out of proportion and then the bones ossify and when the process is all finished it is seen that a kind of plan has been carried out.

Consider how exact certain proportions are. The span of the adult is exactly the same as his height. In other words the distance between your finger tips with the arms stretched straight out from the body is the same as the distance between your heels on the floor and the top of your head. You are divided into two equal halves from the floor up, the distance between your heels and the meeting of the pelvic bone in the center of your body being exactly the same as the distance between the pelvic bone and the top of your head. A tape measure put around your head, chest and abdomen should show proportions of about 7-12, 11-12, and 9-12 respectively.

Mother Nature's job is a godsend to the ready-made clothing merchant.

The engineering firm in charge of this operation is Duplex Glands, Incorporated. They do all the planning and compose all the labor trouble between the body cells who are the masons and carpenters and painters and decorators. The members of the firm are actually Messrs. Thyroid, Pituitary and Gonads. They don't always agree.

Old man Pituitary is an impetuous chap and he likes the arms and legs long and wants big tall people. Little Mr. Thyroid has refined tastes and he likes people with short delicate arms and legs and fingers. Gonad is a roughneck and all he wants is plenty of hair and heavy bones and a deep voice. Between them pulling this way and that they equalize each other and achieve teamwork usually and the result turns out all right. Sometimes one of them gets the bit in his teeth and in that case the sample is out of proportion.

If you want to test out how things are going in your own offspring the average figures for boys are:

At 4 years—span 39¼ in.; upper half body 23 in.; lower half 17½ in.

At 10 years—span 52 in.; upper half body 26¾ in.; lower half 26¼ in.

At 15 years—span 64 in.; upper half body 30¾ in.; lower half 33¼ in.

At 20 years—span 68½ in.; upper half body 33¾ in.; lower half 34¾ in.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. D.—What is the test for telling anemia by the palm of the hand?

Answer: Hold the palm of the hand at the level of the heart, and compare it for color with the palm of a healthy person held in the same position. The color of the anemic palm is pale.

L. C. E.—Will you give a sample days raw food diet, about which you wrote for artaritis?

Answer: A modification which makes the diet more palatable but does not change the high potassium content, which is its good point is:

Breakfast: Raw fruit. Tea with lemon and sugar. Soft cooked egg. Salt-free bread and butter. Marmalade or honey.

Luncheon: 200 to 300 grams of raw vegetables. Mayonnaise. Raw fruit. Salt-free pastry (like a cherry tart).

Dinner: Cheese souffle or salt-free pancakes with fruit preserves or jelly omelette. Raw fruit. Nuts.
